

"WHO ARE THOMAS BARROW?"

In the eleven volumes of Mae Belle Barrow North's Barrow, An Early Southern Family, which later became The Barrow Family Quarterly, I doubt there are many names mentioned as often as that of Thomas Barrow. Look in any index of the 44 issues and you will find multiple listings for Thomas Barrow. James, John, William, and Thomas seem to be the most popular early Barrow names but Thomas is clearly the leader in Colonial and early years of our country in Virginia and North Carolina. The census reports of the eighteenth hundreds and later of the Southern states list numerous Thomas Barrows. We do find that the more recent generations of the Barrow families use the name Thomas much less often, however. Rarely do we find the name Thomas Barrow in a directory these days. I would venture to guess that more members of The Barrow Association of America descend from a Thomas Barrow than from any other name.

Mae Belle seemingly was fascinated with researching the early Thomas Barrow lineage in Virginia and North Carolina. She devoted a tremendous amount of time and effort searching for every bit of information she could gather on "WHO ARE THOMAS BARROW?" and trying to solve the puzzle of correctly identifying each and every one of the numerous Thomases and assigning him to the proper place in our Barrow line.

Since Mae Belle's death, I have carefully re-read each of the 44 issues of her quarterlies and this time tried my best to keep up with her in her interpretation of what she believed, or could substantiate, on the early Thomas Barrows of Virginia and North Carolina. This is critical for me to understand as it is my proven line of descent.

I have made numerous notes, constructed charts and calendars and must say that I still have lots to understand on exactly how the various Thomas Barrows fit in with each other and with other early Virginia families such as the Blows, Smiths and Killebrews who are so often mentioned as being closely associated with the Barrows. I do believe that I now have a much better understanding of my line of descent from Thomas Barrow and who the various Thomases were and how they fit in.

Many facts we know and are confirmed with proof as listed in the quarterlies. I will not give references to this proof as it is well documented by Mae Belle and others in the publications. I will, however, state so when I am speculating or quoting some fact that I have found on my own. We will not go into discussing the later Thomases but will begin with my g-g-g-great grandfather, father of Moses, who Mae Belle, for our identification purposes, has labeled, "Thomas Barrow, Jr." Actually, he was indeed a junior although we have never seen his name signed as such even while his father was alive. His father did, however, identify this Thomas in his will as "Thomas jur."

Thomas, Jr. was born in Southampton County, Va. in 1698. He married his second wife, Elizabeth Atkinson, about 1735 and was living in Isle of Wight County, Nottaway Parish, VA. on the south side of the Nottaway River. In 1754, Thomas Barrow, (Jr.) drew a grant of 215 acres from Lord Granville in Edgecombe County, North Carolina signing his name which was a requirement of Lord Granville for anyone settling on his very large land grants in northern North Carolina. He subsequently owned lands and lived in Halifax and Onslow Counties in North Carolina and died testate in 1761 at his 300-acre plantation located on the banks of New River in Onslow County. His wife, Elizabeth, died about a year later leaving three small boys; Jacob, Moses (my line) and James; a daughter Sally who was born after Thomas, Jr.'s death plus an older son, Hosea, by his first wife, Mary. Thomas, Jr.'s father outlived him by about a year. The ~~three~~ youngest children's grandmother Atkinson and her son, Solomon, raised the orphaned youngsters in Halifax County "On Kekuke Swamp near the old Kekuke Meeting House." We have much well-documented information on the family of Thomas, Jr. including his will, numerous land transactions, where he lived as well as when he was there, and his father's will. Thomas Jr. and his father were fishermen as well as farmers. He left fisheries on the Roanoke River to his heirs especially to son Jacob. The three youngest boys, Moses, James and Jacob, would all become Revolutionary War soldiers fighting for American independence.

The father of the above-mentioned Thomas, Jr. has, for our identification purposes, been tagged "Thomas, Sr." and he indeed was a senior as he identified his son Thomas in his will as "Thomas jur". He did not, however, use this title on official papers such as his will which he signed with "his mark." We have evidence that Thomas, Sr. was born sometimes around 1662-1667 since we know that he died in 1762 and was reported by several sources including the Reverend David Barrow of Kentucky to have lived to an age of 95 to 100 years. He married Elizabeth who, I believe, was Elizabeth Horton, daughter of Thomas Horton, who, in his will, left daughter Elizabeth Barrow "5 shillings." Thomas Horton owned land adjoining that of Thomas Barrow (Sr.). (This is the first assumption in this paper that is mine.). Other Barrow researchers think maybe Elizabeth was the daughter of John Brantley, who in January, 1740, sold Thomas, Sr. and wife Elizabeth 350 acres of land for the token sum of "5 Shillings." This land was located South of the Nottaway River and near Meherrin River. It is odd that the "5 Shillings" is in both the will and the land transaction. Thomas (Sr.) is listed as a tithable in the household of George Blow, Jr. in 1693 after his father's death in 1684. His mother, Elizabeth, married Geo. Blow, Jr. about two months after the death of her husband who was also a Thomas Barrow. Thomas, Sr. lived in Surry, Isle of Wight and Southampton counties in Virginia and died testate in Southampton. His will named "my seven children, Simon, Thomas ("Jur."), John, Elizabeth, Jane, Sarah and Fortune." Son Thomas, Jur. and daughter Elizabeth were deceased and their children, or at least some of them, were listed as heirs along with wife Elizabeth. For some reason the three younger children of Thomas, Jr. were not mentioned. Perhaps they had been taken care of during the old grandfather's lifetime? He named a grandson, still another Thomas who was the son of his son Simon, to inherit his home place after the death of wife Elizabeth. We have documentation on his will, numerous land transactions and proof that he was in the household of George Blow, Jr., his mother's second husband, and his stepfather. Page 4

Since Thomas, Sr.'s father died around 1684 and his mother Elizabeth married George Blow, Jr. in a very short time and since both Thomas and brother Simon were in the George Blow, Jr. household, this Thomas, (Sr.) could not have been the emigrant unless he came to Virginia at a very early age along with his father and/or mother which we believe is highly unlikely. Some Barrow family historians have, however, stated that the Reverend David Barrow of Virginia wrote to James Barrow of Georgia that, "Two lads from England came to the Northern Neck of Virginia and one of these was your grandfather." This Thomas, Sr. thus would have been James', and my Moses', grandfather and the emigrant. I am certain that this is not the case and that it is not what the Reverend David stated in his September 10, 1817 letter to his cousin James of Milledgeville, Georgia. A portion of the letter is quoted here from James Barrow's December 16, 1818 diary entry. His diary is now located in the Barrow Papers in the Southern Historical Collection of the University of North Carolina Library. It reads as follows: "I have heard my grandfather say that two lads, brothers by the name of Barrow were early emigrants from Britton to the Northern Neck of Virginia but I was never informed of the date nor from what part of Britton they came. One of them went off Southwardly, but to what part I do not remember. The other married and settled somewhere in the Northern part of Virginia. Thomas Barrow, my great grandfather and the son of one of the above mentioned brothers moved into Southampton on the waters of the Nottaway River, at the first settling of that part of Virginia where he lived raised his family and died aged between 90 and 100 years, the name of his sons in the order of their birth, as well as my memory serves, were Simon, John and Thomas. Thomas the youngest was your father." The Reverend David clearly states that Thomas, Sr. was the son of one of the emigrants.

We therefore believe that Thomas, Sr.'s father, who we have for identification purposes labeled Thomas "1", was probably the earliest emigrant but even here it is possible that he too was born in Virginia.

One probability on our Thomas(1) is as follows: ABOUT 1640, Thomas Barrow was born in England. He came to Virginia when "UNDER 20 YEARS OF AGE" and settled in "British Colony". We know that in 1654, when this Thomas might have been about 15 years old or even younger, Major Abraham Word received a grant of land for the importation of 8 persons including Mr. Thomas Barrow believed to be from Lancashire, England. The title "Mr." indicates that Thomas was a person of considerable stature and certainly not an indentured servant. Thus, this Thomas would have been about 45 years old when he died and left wife Elizabeth and sons Thomas, (Sr.) and Simon. Elizabeth would then marry George Blow, Jr. the following year in 1685. She would then have one son that we are aware of, George Blow, III. Thomas (1), who married another Elizabeth, was evidently a carpenter and a very good one at that. An inventory of his estate shows in addition to Negroes, live stock, land and household items, there were lots of carpenter tools and "3 thousand eight penny nayles and 2 thousand six penny nayles." Thomas(1) Barrow appears on a 1680 tithe list to Arthur Allen, a renowned architect, builder and carpenter, who is known to have built the famous Bacon's Castle in Surry County, Virginia. This magnificent structure is in fine condition today and is open for public tours. In this same year, 1680, Thomas(1) purchased 150 acres of land from John Smith and his wife Mary, "on the other side of Green Swamp." X

It makes a lot of sense that this Thomas Barrow "1" was our ancestor and that he was the first emigrant. This assumption fits nicely into the puzzle and I believe this is what Mae Belle thought and believed was the case although she would have never said so without absolute proof. However, as good as this fits, I believe there is still another probability which must be considered as follows, and which is all my assumption, but not without more than a few facts backing my beliefs:

- A. There was a Thomas Barrow who died 16 January, 1623 at "Elizabeth Citie". This was only 16 years after the founding of the Virginia Colony on May 13, 1607, and at this time in 1623, there were only 183 English inhabitants in the entire Colony. This information was found in Barrow Families of New England, a publication I found in the library of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Salt Lake City. (Plymouth Colony was established in New England in 1620.) This Thomas was probably of the "Third Supply" of those arriving in the colony.
- B. The Reverend David stated that, "Two lads, brothers by the name of Barrow, were early immigrants to the northern neck of Virginia." He did not state that the two came at the same time.
- C. From, Early Windows-Early Virginia and It's People, Volume 1: "A list of the dead in Virginia since April last: February 16, 1623, Thomas Barrow." We know that he was a militiaman and died on the south side of the James River opposite the Jamestown settlement near "Elizabeth Citie", at a small six-man outpost.
- D. JOHN BARROW was born about 1609 in England. He sailed on the "Plain Joan", Master Richard Buckham, outbound from Gravesend for Virginia on May 15, 1635 at the age of about 26 years. He was the headright of John Sweete of the Isle of Wight who patented 650 acres of land adjacent to Mr. Cooper and Francis England, November 11, 1642 for transportation of 13 persons. Mr. England's land was near Lawnes Creek on the border of Surry County. Was John a brother of Thomas who had died in Virginia in 1623 and were these the two lads referred to by Reverend David? We know that John, like Thomas, was a militiaman.
- E. In 1651 and 1652, John was serving as a militiaman. As early as 1650, John was mentioned as living in James City County when Surry County was created from all the lands on the south side of the James River. Thus, now he would be living in Surry where our Thomas (1) and Thomas, Sr. would also live. On May 3, 1653, he patented 385 acres of land in Surry County "on the South Side of Upper Chipoake Creeke, South Side of the James River, bordered by George Burcher's marked trees." for the transportation of 8 persons. We know that our Thomas (1) purchased land near Chippoaks Creek (Green Swamp) in 1680 from John and Mary Smith.
- F. In 1656, Captain Merriwether assigns 600 acres of land to John Barrow, evidently for his militia service.
- G. Remember, we have stated previously that a Thomas Barrow was born in England before 1640 and came to Virginia before he was 20 years old. Is it possible that this was John's son who joined his father in the colony as soon as he was old enough to migrate? It is reasonable to believe that John would have named his son for his brother Thomas who had died in Virginia.
- H. "Thomas Barrow, son of John, purchases 150 acres of land from John and Mary Smith on Green Swamp on July 6, 1680." We have already noted that Thomas (1) purchased 150 acres of land from John Smith and wife Mary in 1680. This must be the same land and I believe the same person buying this land from the same sellers.
- I. It is said that John Barrow married Mary Blow. We know that our Thomas(1) was very closely associated with the Blow family and that George Blow, Sr. owned land adjacent to John Barrow. Thomas (1)'s widow married George Blow, Jr., and our Thomas, Sr. was living in their household at one time. John Barrow also owned land adjacent to Thomas Barrow (1).

My conclusion is: It seems to me that there is very good evidence that Thomas Barrow (1) was the son of John Barrow and it is likely that he was born in England; however, it is possible that he was born in Virginia. I believe that he was born in England and joined his father as soon as he was old enough to migrate. If this is the case, descendants of Thomas Barrow can now trace their line in Virginia to John Barrow's arrival in 1635, 365 years ago!

By no means do I mean to imply that the portion of this paper regarding John and Thomas(1) Barrow should be taken as fact. It is something which requires much more research and all of the descendants of a Thomas Barrow of Virginia need to continue to work on trying to prove "WHO THOMAS ARE?". Please study the tremendous amount of information that Mae Belle and others have contributed attempting to find the answers. We owe it to her memory to carry on her great work and to dig ever deeper into our heritage.

I welcome your comments regarding the above paper and solicit your help.

"Who Are Thomas and John Barrow?"

I would like to thank everyone who has contacted me regarding my article, "Who are Thomas Barrow?" which appeared in Barrow Branches, Volume II, Number 2 on pages 3-7. Not everyone has agreed with my theory on John (1) and Thomas (1). However, almost everyone who has responded has the belief that Thomas (1) is our ancestor and that he is the young man who did immigrate in 1654 to Virginia Colony. The purpose of the article was to do exactly what it has evidently done. That is to create interest in our early Thomas Barrow families and hopefully have someone develop the proof on just which early Barrow was the beginning of the Thomas lineage in America.

After more research on my part, and after having heard from a number of Barrow researchers whom I respect highly, both Barrow Association members and from non-members as well, including those who have studied their genealogy much deeper than I have, I have to come to the following conclusion: My last assumption in the article that Thomas (1) came to the colony to join his father John is not correct as I have it. It would be very difficult for me to prove that my John (1) was the father of my Thomas (1). I do however, believe that the two were very closely associated and probably related, possible uncle and nephew? For instance, we know that they owned land adjoining each other on Green Swamp. It is also possible that they were indeed father-son as I have proposed.

Another possibility is that the Thomas who came to Virginia in 1654 is not my Thomas (1) at all and that there was another Thomas who did come to join his father John, or who was born in the Colony and would have been my Thomas (1)? From Early Windows-Early Virginia and Its People, we quote, "Thomas Barrow, son of John, purchases 150 acres of land from John and Mary Smith on Green Swamp on July 6, 1680." Some John Barrow certainly had a son named Thomas. We know that our Thomas (1) purchased land from John and Mary Smith on Green Swamp on July 6, 1680.

I would now like to present a few "facts"(?) hoping that they will again cause enough concern to get us all thinking and to researching our early Barrow heritage. The numbers in () are entirely my way of identifying various generations and continue from my previous article.

1. A John Barrow (2) was born in 1643. Some say in the Virginia Colony, others say in England. (?)
2. A Thomas Barrow (1?) was born in 1640 in England and came to America when he was under 20 years of age. He would have been 3 years older than John. (See my previous article for details.)
3. From A Few Early Families in America by Mrs. Albert S. Johnson, 1941 we quote, "Others of the name [Barrow] who immigrated at an early date but left few records of their immediate families or descendents ----(here she lists a number of Barrows)---John and Thomas of Henrico County in 1654 ---(here she lists more Barrows)." In the very early days, Surry County was established from all the lands south of the James River. In 1654 this area would have been Surry County.
4. We know that a Mr. Thomas Barrow was imported by Major Wood along with seven others to Surry County in 1654. This fits with Mrs. Johnson's list of early emigrants. Thomas (1)? (Wood)
5. John (1) was living in James City County when Surry was created and was thus now living in the new Surry County.
6. Was there a John Barrow among the eight imports of Major Wood? Mrs. Johnson states, "John and Thomas Barrow." (Wood)
7. We know that Thomas (1) was involved with the construction of Bacon's Castle which later maps show in Henrico County. At the time it was built, it was in Surry County where John and Thomas (1) would have come to and where Mrs. Johnson says the two were located.

8. The Reverend David Barrow states, "Two lads by the name of Barrow were early immigrants to the northern Neck of Virginia. One went off southwardly but to what part I do not remember. The other married and settled down in the northern part of Virginia." See my previous article for the full text of the letter.
9. I believe that John's (1) home would have been in what was called the northern part of Virginia at that time.
10. Thomas (1) did indeed settle down in Surry County, near John (1).
11. A John (2?) did indeed "went off southwardly" and settled in the new lands of North Carolina, which became Perquimans Precinct.
12. Were these the two lads the Rev. David speaks of? Did they come to the Colony together? Rev. David does not state that they came at the same time but it seems possible.
13. In 1668, John (2) was 25 years old and married to Sara Horton in Perquimans Precinct, N. C. At the same time, Thomas (1) was a carpenter in Surry County, Virginia, and living on lands adjoining John (1). John (2) died in 1718 when 75 years old. (This definitely eliminates John (1) from being the one going to N. C. as he would have been at least 109 years old in 1718.)

For a long time I, along with other Barrow researchers who I have discussed the probability with, have suspected that Thomas (1) had a brother John and the two were the lads that the Rev. David referred to in his letter to his cousin James Barrow of Georgia. Possibly, they were the sons of a John Barrow? Were these two the ancestors of most of us who are members of the Barrow Association and thus are we all actually from the same family line?

Again, your comments would be greatly appreciated.

Surviving military records and pension applications (except for the Civil War Pension applications) for wars prior to World War I are preserved in the National Archives, Washington, D.C. 20408. Applications for a search of these records should be made on GSA Form 6751, obtainable from the National Archives.

CONCERNING REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS

EXPLANATORY NOTE ON REVOLUTIONARY ARMY ACCOUNTS AND REVOLUTIONARY VOUCHERS: These records contain incomplete pay records of the Revolutionary period, denoting that the State of North Carolina paid certain individuals for some product or service. These records do NOT prove military service unless they carry this information, and many of them do not indicate for what purpose payment was made. These records do NOT give any personal information. Usually payment was for civil service, military service, or the sale of supplies to the army, but if the reason for and place of payment are not given on the record, we have no way of supplying that information. The vouchers usually contain large cancellation holes which will show up as white or black spots on a photocopy.

Archives Information Circular No. 1, North Carolina's Revolutionary War Pay Records, is a leaflet giving descriptions and explanations (but not listing) Revolutionary Army Accounts and pay vouchers. A copy may be obtained for 50¢ plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Check here to order. X.

CONCERNING CIVIL WAR RECORDS

North Carolina Troops, 1861-1865: A Roster is an attempt to produce a full and corrected roster containing the names of all North Carolinians who served in the Civil War, their service records and organizational units in which they served. The rosters of the artillery units and cavalry units have been completed, and publication of the infantry rosters has begun. Published volumes of this roster may be purchased from the department's Historical Publications Section. Please do not combine payment for copies of the volumes with payment for typed or photographic copies.

Archives Information Circular No. 4, North Carolina Civil War Records: An Introduction to Printed and Manuscript Sources, is a leaflet giving descriptions of some of the more important published and unpublished sources of information on Confederate veterans and North Carolina's role in the Civil War. A copy may be obtained for 50¢ plus a self-addressed stamped envelope. Check here to order. _____.

The North Carolina State Archives does not have individual service or discharge records. Surviving military records and pension applications (except for the Civil War Pension applications) for wars prior to World War I are preserved in the National Archives, Washington, D.C. 20408. Applications for a search of these records should be made on NATF Form 80., obtainable from the National Archives.

CONCERNING REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS

EXPLANATORY NOTE ON REVOLUTIONARY ARMY ACCOUNTS AND REVOLUTIONARY VOUCHERS: These records contain incomplete pay records of the Revolutionary period, denoting that the State of North Carolina paid certain individuals for some product or service. These records do NOT prove military service unless they carry this information, and many of them do not indicate for what purpose payment was made. These records do NOT give any personal information. Usually payment was for civil service, military service, or the sale of supplies to the army, but if the reason for and place of payment are not given on the record, we have no way of supplying that information. The vouchers usually contain large cancellation holes which will show up as white or black spots on a photocopy.

Archives Information Circular No. 1, North Carolina's Revolutionary War Pay Records, is a leaflet giving descriptions and explanations (but not listing) Revolutionary Army Accounts and pay vouchers. A copy may be obtained for 50¢ plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Check here to order. _____.

CONCERNING CIVIL WAR RECORDS

North Carolina Troops, 1861-1865: A Roster is an attempt to produce a full and corrected roster containing the names of all North Carolinians who served in the Civil War, their service records and organizational units in which they served. The rosters of the artillery units and cavalry units have been completed, and publication of the infantry rosters has begun. Published volumes of this roster may be purchased from the department's Historical Publications Section. Please do not combine payment for copies of the volumes with payment for typed or photographic copies.

Archives Information Circular No. 4, North Carolina Civil War Records: An Introduction to Printed and Manuscript Sources, is a leaflet giving descriptions of some of the more important published and unpublished sources of information on Confederate veterans and North Carolina's role in the Civil War. A copy may be obtained for 50¢ plus a self-addressed stamped envelope. Check here to order. _____.

securities. North Carolina's quota of debts to be assumed, and open therefore to subscription, was almost $2.5 million. When it began to look as though North Carolina's total claim of over $33 million was not going to be settled, the Governor and Treasurer attempted to subscribe to $400,000 of the federal stock, and obliged the federal loan officer to accept in exchange some of the certificates for which the state had already made final settlements. U.S. Treasurer Alexander Hamilton and Attorney General Edmund Randolph countermanded the federal loan officer and the certificates were returned to the North Carolina officials. Before they were returned, the federal loan officer wrote across the back of each certificate that had been tendered the note, "Presented on the ____ day of ____ on Loan to the United States and since rejected, Wm. Skinner Commr." The note does not, of course, mean that the claim for which the certificate was originally issued was invalid (which seems to be what most researchers fear it means).

THE REGISTER OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CONTINENTAL LINE

In January 1790, Francis Child, Treasurer of North Carolina, sent such muster rolls and payrolls as he could lay his hands on to the federal Board of Commissioners to settle the war debt. This was done in order to prove claims being made by this state. The removal of the rolls meant that state officials no longer had the records to substantiate the military service of veterans (needed to prove such things as eligibility for pensions and bounty lands). Consequently, the General Assembly ordered Col. Abishai Thomas, its agent to the General Board, to copy from the muster and pay rolls, then in Philadelphia, a list of all the officers and soldiers of the North Carolina Continental Line. The result was a large manuscript volume entitled "Copy of a Register shewing the names alphabetically, rank, dates of Commissions and enlistments, periods of service and occurrences [sic], taken from the original muster and pay rolls of the North Carolina Line of the late Army of the United States," which was completed by the clerks, Lynde Catlin and Benjamin Mifflin, on 28 July 1791.

When Colonel Thomas instructed his clerks in the preparation of the Register of the North Carolina Continental Line, as this manuscript volume is popularly called, it was his intention for them to abstract all information from the pay and muster rolls into one master list, arranged first by surname initial of the soldier, then by regiment. All soldiers whose surname commenced with A who had served in the First Regiment were to appear first; they were to be followed by soldiers with surnames beginning with A who had served in the Second Regiment, Third Regiment and so on. Upon completion of all ten regiments, the soldiers whose surname started with the letter B were to be reported regiment by regiment. Figure 58 shows the service record of James Eslick as it appears in the Register. Apparently it was taken from a muster roll of Captain James Williams' Company, Fourth Regiment, dated in February 1778. It shows that he entered the company as a private in 1777, presumably as a three-year enlistment, and that he was omitted from the muster roll in February 1778. The letter S to the left of his name indicates that he served as a substitute for another man who had been drafted.

The pay and muster rolls available to Colonel Thomas's clerks were headed by the names of the captains who were their commanding officers, and did not include the officers themselves in the body of the roll. At least thirty of the rolls did not report the number of the regiment of which the captain's company was a constituent unit. This has led to two grave weaknesses in the Register of The North Carolina Continental Line, so far as researchers are concerned. First, service records of officers are for the most part missing from the Register. Second, it appears to have been the practice of Col. Thomas's clerks to group all rolls without regimental designations together. They failed, however, to create a category called "regiment unspecified" for soldiers whose service records were abstracted from those rolls. Instead, by some dreadful accident, abstracts from unspecified rolls were added to the end of the service record abstracts for soldiers in the Tenth Regiment. If a researcher finds the service record of the subject of his research reported in the Tenth Regiment in the Register, and knows from unimpeachable sources that the soldier's service was really in another regiment, it will just have to be borne. When the North Carolina State Archives certifies a record from the Register it is obliged by the laws governing certification of records to report precisely what the record states--no more and no less. It cannot silently correct the record (even if it reports that the soldier had two teeth and thirty-two eyes) so there is no point in requesting that regimental designations be altered from the Tenth to another one on certified copies prepared from the Register.

Admittedly, the Register's lack of officers' service records and 10th Regiment jumble constitute a sort of Scylla and Charybdis for researchers. Here are some suggestions for safe navigation through these dangerous waters. About 1884 Secretary of State William L. Saunders compiled a list of the officers of North Carolina's ten Continental Line regiments. The list reports names and dates of commission by regiment. Using this work, it is frequently possible to determine the correct regiment for the soldier by determining the correct regiment of his captain. Saunders's fifteen page list is entitled North Carolina Troops in the Continental Line, 1776-1782, and was published as a state document under authority of the Secretary of State. It can be found in many of the larger state university libraries that have collections of printed North Carolina state documents.⁴ In addition to consulting this list, the researcher should analyze entries in the Register to see whether or not it will obliquely correct itself. To do this, the researcher must know that in the spring of 1777 the Tenth Regiment was authorized to be raised by Colonel Abraham Sheppard. Colonel Sheppard's recruiting achievements were not one of the success stories of the war. He never filled up the regiment. Once it got to Valley Forge in 1778, the regiment was disbanded, and its soldiers were distributed in other regiments in May of that year. (See the discussion of the Continental Line regiments above under "Colonial and State Militia of North Carolina.") The first eight captains' companies reported under the Tenth Regiment in the Register genuinely were in the Tenth: Wilson, Sheppard, Stephenson, Jarvis, Gregory, Heron, Isaac Moore, and Vanoy. Other Tenth Regiment companies with muster and pay rolls that did not name the regiment (and are consequently among the group that would have been designated "regiment unspecified") were: Gregory, Rhodes, Mills, Campbell, Bacot, Jones, and Elijah Moore. Consequently, if the Register reports a soldier as having entered the Tenth Regiment in 1780 in Captain Donoho's company, decline to accept this as complete fact. The statement of service should be reliable as reported (that is, date of entry, term of service, captain's name, and remarks concerning service), but distrust the regimental assignment--there should not have been a Tenth Regiment in 1780, and Captain Donoho should not have been a company commander in the Tenth when it was in existence. Look through other parts of the volume for men in Captain Donoho's company and see to what regiment the Register assigned them. This procedure shows Captain Donoho's company to have been the Sixth Regiment, which is likely to be correct since the information is confirmed by the Secretary of State's published list. If Colonel Thomas' clerks had only one roll available for a captain's company and that roll had no regimental designation, analysis of the rest of the Register will be to no avail, of course.

⁴Mr. Saunders's pamphlet was reprinted in 1900 by J.R.B. Hathaway in Volume 1 (beginning at page 415) of his periodical North Carolina Historical and Genealogical Register, and Mr. Hathaway's Register has itself been reprinted by the Genealogical Publishing Company of Baltimore, Maryland (1979).

Of the two copies of the Register of the North Carolina Continental Line formerly in custody of the Secretary of State and of the Comptroller, only the Comptroller's copy has survived, and it is among the records of that official in the State Archives. The original muster and pay rolls from which the Register was prepared were destroyed when the British fired the offices of the United States Treasury during the burning of Washington in 1814.

There are two printed versions of the Register: the first is in Volume XVI of The State Records of North Carolina; the second is a rearranged version published by the North Carolina Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in their Roster of Soldiers from North Carolina in the American Revolution.

BOUNTY LAND WARRANTS

When the state of North Carolina found it difficult to raise its quota of Continental Line soldiers established by the Continental Congress, the General Assembly turned to the notion of bounties as a way to entice volunteers. With a vast expanse of vacant land stretching from the Allegheny Mountains to the Mississippi, the Assembly naturally looked upon free land as an acceptable blandishment with which to court desirable young soldiers. She offered those who served as privates approximately 7.6 acres for each month spent in the service of her Continental Line. Commissioned ranks were allowed a greater acreage, which increased with the rank held. The state expected not less than two year's service; three were preferable; the duration of the war was ideal.

Counting from July 1776 to September 1783, the State figured the war as having lasted eighty-four months. Soldiers drafted for a few months or even for eighteen months were not entitled to bounty land unless they reenlisted so as to serve for more than two years. Militiamen, even if they were detached to service with the Continental Line, were not entitled to this bounty.

In 1783, a great tract of land northeast of Nashville (still in North Carolina at that time) was reserved and laid out for the purpose of fulfilling the promise of bounty land to the officers and soldiers of the Continental Line. Eventually, all of this land was exhausted, and bounty land warrants were issued for land elsewhere. But the elsewhere was still in the territory that is now Tennessee; no bounty land warrants for Revolutionary War Service were granted for land within the present confines of North Carolina.
